

THE TRANS-AUSTRALIAN RAILWAY

“ . . . . . And I crossed again
Over the miles of the saltbush plain—
The shining plain that is said to be
The dried-up bed of an inland sea,
Where the air, so dry and so clear and bright
Refracts the sun with a wondrous light,
And out in the dim horizon makes
The deep blue gleam of the phantom lakes.
For those that love it, and understand,
The saltbush plain is a wonderland.”—(A. B. PATERSON).

To those who desire to obtain a conception of the continent of Australia, no experience is more helpful than a journey over the railway which links Western Australia with the Eastern States of the Commonwealth.

Distinguished people from many lands who have travelled overland to learn at first-hand the character of the country which lies beyond the populated seaboard, have been fascinated with the lure of the inland.

The inter-capital express trains operated by the State railway administrations connect with the Commonwealth's Trans-Australian Railway at the eastern terminal, Port Pirie, where the overland journey of 1,108 miles is commenced in a train replete with every modern convenience.

The aim of the Commonwealth Railways Commissioner is to provide on the Trans-Australian Railway all the amenities of a modern hotel. The restful lounges and spacious sleeping cabins have been designed to afford the utmost comfort to the traveller.

While the Trans-Australian journey does not present the scenic grandeur of other railway routes, it, nevertheless, offers glimpses of the unusual and offers an attractiveness and fascination found only in a sparsely-inhabitated region. It may be the delicate colours in the sky at sunset, the peculiar outline of the hills, or the glimpse of a camel train, but it is certain that passengers who take the overland journey will be fascinated and interested.

TALKING POINTS.

The Trans-Australian Railway between Port Augusta and Kalgoorlie (1051 miles), was completed on 17th October, 1917. The extension from Port Augusta to Port Pirie Junction—56 miles—was opened on 26th July, 1937.

The railway runs for over 400 miles across the Nullarbor Plain, and, of that distance, over 300 miles is without a curve—the longest stretch of straight railway track in the world.

The Nullarbor Plain (Nulla—no, arbor—tree), has an area of probably 100,000 square miles, or more than the area of the State of Victoria. The geology of this strange region is little known, but it is obvious that at one time it was sea bed. The limestone, most of it full of preserved shells, was, of course, laid down under water.

In the country for about 300 miles west of Port Augusta there are established large sheep stations, which support nearly a million sheep. The average rainfall in this area is between 7 and 8 inches, and it is far from being the desert which many people imagine.

Tarcoola is the largest settlement between Port Augusta and Kalgoorlie. Before the construction of the railway the Tarcoola mail coach drawn by mule teams maintained a service with Port Augusta over a distance of 257 miles.

In the 1108 miles between Port Pirie Junction and Kalgoorlie there is not one permanent stream of fresh water. Water supplies are drawn from wells, bores, and dams. Water treatment plants are installed at several locations to treat the well and bore water to fit it for use in locomotive boilers.

The Commonwealth Railways Department operates its own stores to supply employees with meat, groceries, fruit and vegetables, clothing, and general house-hold lines. The main store is at Port Augusta with branches at Tarcoola, Cook, Rawlinna, and Parkeston. Employees at other locations are served from the “Tea and Sugar” train which traverses the line in each direction weekly.

Modern refrigerated butchers vans are a feature of the “Tea and Sugar” train.
